Nadeska Alexis:

Okay, that's a really good point. Because when you're trying to make a home purchase, especially if you're a first time buyer. There's a lot that you have to consider in terms of your budget and what you're going to be dealing with for the next few years. So how big of a factor should rates be in that decision? Also, there's also the option to refinance at some point. So when
